Balamara receives Environmental Approval for Nowa Ruda

The Polish Ministry Of Environment through their regional office in Wroclaw (RDOS) has formally advised Balamara Resources Ltd that it has been granted the Environmental Permit and Approval for its Nowa Ruda mine.

With this approval Balamara is another significant step closer to achieving its goal of developing a coking coal mine at Nowa Ruda in southern Poland.

Having achieved this significant milestone Balamara is progressing work on an application for the mining licence so that construction can commence later this year.

Balamara is greatly encouraged by the strong demand for the quality of coking coal at Nowa Ruda.

Balamara's second Polish asset, the large thermal coal project at Sawin, is progressing well as the drilling program continues and Sawin remains approximately 12 months behind Nowa Ruda in the approval process.
